Celebrating 35 years of history

1969-2004

This book is a tribute to the men and women who have devoted so much time and energy to make our communities and our great State of Wisconsin a better place to live. May you know how much your work is appreciated.

I hope you get as much enjoyment from this book as I have in putting it together. Thank you to everyone that sent photos and other memorabilia. I am sure that I will have missed some events, people and places. For any mistakes I have made or important items I have missed, I sincerely apologize. Any inaccuracies, discrepancies or inefficiencies are completely unintentional. I hope the thoughts contained will spur your own good memories, nonetheless.

Sincerely,

CeCe Tesky

Zoning Administrators in Wisconsin form a statewide organization with the intent that working as a group they may better prepare to meet the challenges of their offices.

Our Beginnings

In a letter written by Charles Byington, Price County Zoning Administrator, dated November 1968:

“In the course of doing business and in conversation with other administrators, I have come to the conclusion that the best source of information and help for each other would come from among the Zoning Administrators themselves. In stating that to others, I have been asked to write each of you and try to set up a meeting for all...”

ACCA

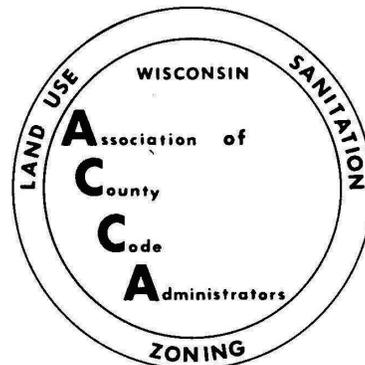

In early 1969, a Steering Committee was formed. The first meeting was held at the Mead Inn in Wisconsin Rapids and was attended by A.A. Lattimer, Bayfield County; Howard Kruse, Pierce County; John Sweat, Wood County; Bob Pinkerton, Fond du Lac County; and Robert Irwin, Columbia County. John Sweat was elected chair of the committee. Within a couple of meetings, these folks outlined membership classification, voting rights, dues and proposed by-laws.

On October 22, 1969, the committee’s ideas came to fruit when members ratified the proposed constitution for the “Association of County Code Administrators.” Members elected a President, John Sweat, 1st Vice President, Howard Kruse, 2nd Vice President, William Hoffman, 3rd Vice President, Harold Barber and Secretary-Treasurer, Robert Irwin. At this same meeting, Mr. Bob Roden of the DNR spoke and stated that 29 counties have submitted shoreland ordinances that have been approved by the DNR.

Mr. James Sargent of the Division of Plumbing—Plan Approval Section, also attended the meeting, as well as, Mr. William Koenig, Chief of Plumbing Section. Mr. Koenig stated that the new program of State Sanitary Permits now covers the construction, alteration or extension of domestic sewage disposal systems. There is a $10.00 fee to be collected by the County Clerk and forwarded to the Plumbing Section. Mr. Sargent presented a film showing the installation of a soil absorption sewage system and the proper method of taking perc tests.

The Association’s first adopted resolution was one urging the newly formed legislative committee to give the matter of State Permits, as they pertain to private sewage disposal systems, their immediate attention.

ZONING NOTES

by Charles W. Byington, Price County Zoning Administrator

Tomorrow is the day. August 13, 1970. The day of the public hearing on the Zoning Amendments.

I'll be there, as they will affect me personally as much as they do you, and I will also be the administrator of the Zoning Amendments. An early understanding of them now will prevent future misunderstandings, both on your part and the Zoning Administrator's.

The Sanitary Code and the Subdivision Control Ordinance are two cases in point. The confusion and misunderstanding was terrific. However, after groping through the fog of ignorance, we have come to understand the requirements pretty well and have found that they are not too hard to live with and are for our own benefit. All people don't see eye to eye on the requirements, but the ones that cause the trouble are those who try to get around them or who think they are beyond the Sanitary Code and Subdivision Control Ordinance regulations. The same perhaps will be found to hold true with the Zoning Amendments.

No one in the United States has ever held a clear, absolute title to any land. If he had, he could have started his own little country, with himself as King or God, whatever he chose himself to be called, and the choice would be his. The land you hold has had restrictions on since you first became it's custodian. I use that word in place of owner, as we can't take it with us when we go. It will be left behind.

Now comes the time to restrict the use a little more, as people, in general, are beginning to abuse the land more and more each day before they leave God's green earth for the heavenly place where even there, I'm sure they will have rules, regulations and restrictions, as everybody there is not an angel.

The hearing tomorrow will clarify. Parts may be changes to fit the majority; but they will not be stopped. Delayed perhaps, but in the end they will be in force as the County is under the state ultimatum of "get it done or we will."

So be there tomorrow, but come with a thinking mind and not one full hate. No cussing will allowed inside, but outside you can really let it out and cussing your Zoning Administrator after it goes into effect will do you no good, but it will help if you.....see your Zoning Administrator.

ZONING ADMINISTRATOR

"You are underpaid, underloved and misunderstood. I think that the general word picture of what a code administrator is that he has to be mature, thoughtful, cunning, charming, kind, scholar, thorough, forceful, accurate, independent, strong, reasonable and often able to stand before a mirror and say, "Why the hell did I ever become a county code administrator?" " And yet you have to turn around and answer honestly, "Because the public needs what I can do for them." This technique about talking to the mirror isn't a bad idea to use rather frequently because it might be the most intelligent conversation you will have all day long."

- as stated in a speech given by Mr. Homer Mittlestadt, Corporation Counsel, Eau Claire County, at the ACCA Conference, November 4, 1971

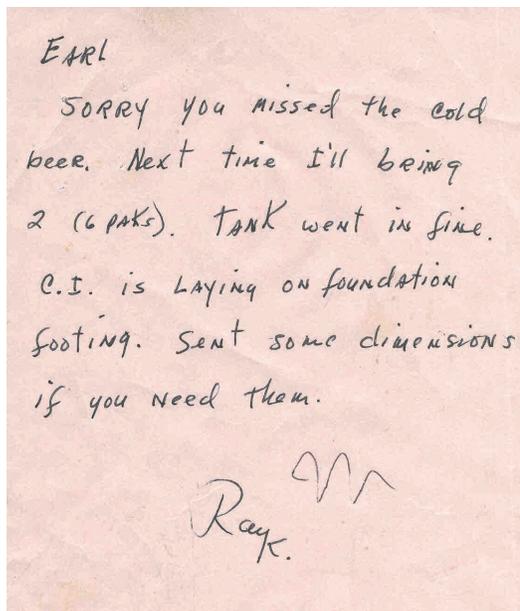

Discussion then turned to the matter of percolation test. There is Legislation pending for 1973 that would wipe out all persons now authorized to take these tests, unless they go to a school for certification. This sounds like we may be getting on the right track. Also, if you have good reason for doubting a percolation rate brought in by a Plumber, you do have the authority to request the Plumber to retake the tests in your presence. This should help take up slack time!

- ACCA Newsletter, April 1973

"The Executive Committee met on October 16, 1971 to discuss legislation on the Controversial Septic Tank Fees. The Committee went on record to repeal this $10.00 fee to all counties or municipalities that have adopted H.62.20 of the Wisconsin Administrative Code....There have been several meetings in Western and Northwest Wisconsin of plumbers and State Board of Health. These meetings were set up by the Zoning Administrators and have been very well attended. It is the general opinion of the plumbers that they do not want to take time to do percolation tests and have to pick up the Septic Tank and Sanitary Permits. They say that it costs the Homeowner too much because of the time loss to them. Even some County Clerks are rebelling against this, saying that there is no reason why the plumber alone must pick up the permits. Some are even letting anybody pick them up.

Has anyone had any problems with people wanting to use Plastic Pipe for sewers? Another problem is using a Cement Joint. Some concrete septic tanks come with an inlet and/or outlet that is too large and a lead joint is almost impossible. The State says, "it must be lead or Oakum." There should be some flexibility on this, you would think. I suppose the State Board of Health figures it would be abused and some of the installers probably would do just that. ..."

-ACCA News, November 1971

Jay Shambeau of Clark County found this in one of the old sanitary files. He commented, "Oh, to be back in the good 'ole days..."

Informing people that their land does not meet the state standards necessary to install a septic sewer system is one of Earl Kilby's jobs as the county zoning administrator. Peoples' reaction to this information ranges from angry shouting to desperate pleading, because, generally speaking, a rural home cannot be built without a septic sewage system.....The average zoning administrator holds his job only 3 1/2 years, Kilby noted, partly because of the regular conflicts with people over enforcing sewage regulations. Kilby has been on the job eight years, and has somehow maintained his friendly disposition.

- The Star News, August 1976

When WCCA was in it's infancy—going back some 7 years—the attendance at conferences was primarily zoning administrators, personnel from the Division of Health and a few from DNR, all trying so very hard to establish a working rapport. After 7 years, we've come a long way towards that rapport. The road has been as rough as “the rocky road to Dublin,” and it was all uphill. Yes, we still have a long way to go and then some, and because of this a new committee has been formed called the Futures Committee. Their primary function will be to look somewhat into the future and give up a compass course to follow relative to our jobs and this organization. Job security will be one issue they will address. Over the years of this group we have discussed this ax that is constantly swinging over us and perhaps with the Futures Committee and with your assistance, an answer can be found. Remember the old axiom “together we stand, divided we fall.”

- President's Message, by John Anderson, WCCA Newsletter, June 1977

Sargent briefly discussed the certification program for on-site waste disposal inspectors. There are some problems with the materials for this training in that there is not enough information on system inspection. This certification program was mandated by the one and two family dwelling code laws. Orville Hintz pointed out that with the most recent statute changes to 145, counties must inspect all systems, the county inspector must be certified and only counties will be making these inspections.

- WCCA State Agencies Liaison Committee Minutes, October 1979

An informational hearing on proposed future use of mound septic systems throughout the state drew sharp differences of opinion Wednesday, August 8. Sen. Roger P. Murphy, a Waukesha Republican and sponsor of SB-97 led off testimony by praising mounds and other alternatives as the answer to the serious problems Wisconsin is facing as older septic tank systems fail and new installations are in many cases inhibited by stricter soil standards promulgated in the past two years.....Because mound systems would allow development of a substantially greater portion of the state environmentalists strongly opposed the Murphy Bill and the DH&SS report. Some criticized the mound proposal as too complex for county officials to administer, arguing that county code administrators do not have the expertise to supervise and inspect such systems.....Jefferson County Z.A. and Sanitarian, Bill Hoffman appeared for WCCA in support of the mound proposal, and told the committee he felt mounds would be neither time-consuming nor too difficult for county departments to handle.

- WCCA Legislative Report, August 1979

The composite wisdom of those at the assemblage was unable to adequately arrive at a method of abating inconsistent plan review by the Bureau of Plumbing. The group decided to move onto a problem which would be easier to come to grips with....like eliminating the foreign trade deficit or proving the theory of an expanding universe.

- NWDZAA meeting minutes, August 1983

Rarely has any proposed piece of law, be it a bill or administrative rule, contained material dealing with as many volatile and controversial issues as are addressed within the 117 pages of the Department of Health and Social Services' proposed rule H63, entitled "Private Sewage Systems." Several major issues are addressed: replacement of failing systems, county sanitary administration, use of the experimental mound systems and provisions for use of other alternate systems, soil testing standards and system designs.

- WCCA Report, May 1980

Harold Barber from St. Croix County Zoning was against the issuance of well permits as a source to raise revenue to compensate owners with polluted wells. He said they should get rid of half of the DNR and that would solve the problem.

- WCCA Meeting, April 1980

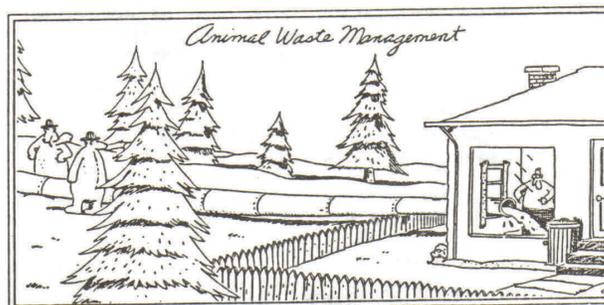

The WCCA voted unanimously at its Spring Conference to support the removal of the $25 groundwater surcharge from the DNR and transfer it to SSWMP and DILHR's Private Sewage Section.

- 1989

A provision in the budget review bill was adopted by the Legislature and partially line vetoed by Governor Lee Dreyfus, such that towns and villages with fewer than 2,500 residents will not have to provide "inspection services" under the uniform dwelling code, at least for non-manufactured houses. Not much beyond that is clear. A DILHR spokesperson said that the code will go into effect for all other areas of the state in full, and that DILHR will exercise jurisdiction over any area which does not do so locally. DILHR is in the process of determining what the budget amendments actually do and when they finalize their determination, we'll pass it along.

- WCCA Report, May 1980

Eugene Abelson reported that recent research confirms the theory that diarrhea is hereditary. "It appears," stated our Finnish patriarch, "that it runs in the genes (jeans)!"

- NWDZAA meeting minutes, August 1983

Briefly discussed was possible uses of computers in Zoning Offices. Also bantered about was the savings which could be realized in long distance telephone calls through the use of Dane lines.

- NWDZAA meeting minutes, August 1983

And how about that sm-o-o-o-th transition from the old Comm 83 to the new code? I trust that Schopenhauer's Law of Entropy still applies: "If you put a spoonful of wine in a barrel of sewage, you get sewage. If you put a spoonful of sewage in a barrel of wine, you get sewage." If you put a new code into effect in the middle of the constructions season, you get....

- President's Message by Craig Conroy, DeCoder, September 2000

We are given a tremendous responsibility to promote responsible stewardship of the resources that we are blessed with, both in our local communities and collectively around the world. This "higher calling" if you will, is scripture based. "The Earth is the Lord's and everything therein." (paraphrase of Psalm 24:1) We are given a duty that we should take very seriously. Remember this and feel good about it the next time you are getting chewed out by an unruly customer who demands to do whatever he wants to with his land no matter what the rules say. Recessions come and go but our mission has a higher purpose and is of a more permanent nature.

- President's Message from Dan Miller, DeCorder, February 2002

State and county level government alike are struggling with budgets that involve program changes, staffing, and possible changes in services offered. Through all of this however, the demand to develop farmland, woodland and shoreland continues to march on at a steady and sometimes rapid pace. This means the jobs that we do have never been more important and the support that we give each other as a professional organization has never been more essential. I know the zoning pioneers that started this fine organization back in 1969 are proud of how we have carried on it's fine tradition. Their intent was to put together an association that would support and promote wise land use decisions and the people that were charged with administering the county land use ordinances that would uphold those decisions.

- President's Message by Paul Flottum, DeCorder, September 2003

Chief Seattle expressed these thoughts in 1854 before an assembly of Northwestern Indian tribes who were preparing to sign treaties with the white man....

We know that the white man does not understand our ways. One portion of the land is the same to him as the next, for he is a stranger who comes in the night and takes from the land whatever he needs. The earth is not his brother, but his enemy, and when he has conquered it, he moves on. He leaves his fathers' graves behind and does not care. He kidnaps the earth from his children. He does not care. His fathers' graves and his children's birth-right are forgotten. He treats his mother, the earth, and his brother, the sky, as things to be bought, plundered, sold like sheep or bright beads. His appetite will devour the earth and leave behind a desert.

You must teach your children that the ground beneath their feet is the ashes of our grandfathers. So that they will respect the land, tell your children that the earth is rich with the lives of our kin. Teach your children what we have taught our children, that the earth is our mother. Whatever befalls the earth, befalls the sons of earth. If men spit upon the ground, they spit upon themselves. This we know. The earth does not belong to man; man belongs to the earth. This we know.

All things are connected like the blood which unites one family. Whatever befalls the earth befalls the sons of earth. Man did not weave the web of life, he is merely a strand in it. Whatever he does to the web, he does to himself.

Probably one of the more interesting campaigns for Executive Board was in 2001 when both CeCe Tesky and Bruce Haukom were nominated for 2nd Vice President. That evening, after nominations, Bruce instructed the band playing in the bar to mention to “Vote for CeCe” . Not to be out done, CeCe created campaign posters, with the help of Scott Carmody, and placed them everywhere around the motel. The evening was filled with eventful campaigning. As it turns out, Bruce was not able to serve on the board so CeCe became 2nd VP. She served until her resignation in 2003 when Bruce was appropriately appointed to fulfill the term.

How Does One Become a ZA?

A profile of John Anderson, By Dick Lehman, shortened and paraphrased from WCCA newsletter, Fall 1977

John began his tale...It began in Ireland quite a few years ago. I'm not going to mention any dates. In Ireland I was in the construction business—ceramic tile, mosaic, terrazzo.

Before I got involved in ceramic tile I had been in school until the age of 14. I was 14 on the 8th of December. On the 9th of December, I was in ropeworks where I learned to make and splice rope. Some of the ropes I spliced were as thin as your little finger and some I spliced were as thick as your body. Those ropes were used for the front of tugs, where they bumped the large liners into the docks. I worked at this for a year before breaking in to the tile business. I was fortunate to break in at all because in those days, it was a father and son setup.

I didn't have much schooling because the grade school I went to was almost like a reform school. If they'd give you a problem and you couldn't get the answer, you got caned with a three-foot cane. They'd hold you by the wrist and lay that into you. I damn well know this had some effect on my learning. But after getting into the tile business and getting around the world, I figured I ought to know a bit more so I started to go to the Queen's University at night, to learn to speak the King's English, and that helped me quite a bit.

I worked with tiling through the apprenticeship. I was getting a bit older. My apprenticeship was finished in five years. I was a journeyman for a year or two. I said, "What is there in Belfast for me? Am I going to set tile for the rest of my life?" You went into a job over there and you died in that job. But I was of another cult. I anted to try Australia, New Zealand, United States or Canada. I chose the US. I came to Chicago and I couldn't get at my trade in Chicago, even though I showed my union card from the old country. In Chicago it was a closed father and son deal again just like what I'd left. They said I'd have to serve another three years in apprenticeship. When you serve an apprenticeship you practically lick the floor with your tongue after the journeyman. You clean up after him, make his tea, get the fires going in the morning, wash his tiles, wash his toold, mix the mud and haul the mud. No way was I signing on for more of that!

So I left tile setting and got a job as a meat cutter and I had to serve another apprenticeship! I did 2 1/2 years of that. Just to get our bearings, this is now around 1953. It was at this time in Chicago that Eleanor and I met.

During a summer we took a vacation trip to northern Wisconsin. We stayed on the north end of Trout Lake. It was so peaceful and quiet sitting near the lake, especially compared to our home in the city. Eleanor notice property for sale in Boulder Junction. Wouldn't it be nice to live up here?

We mulled it over all winter. Finally we decided to chuck the whole ball of wax and came up north.

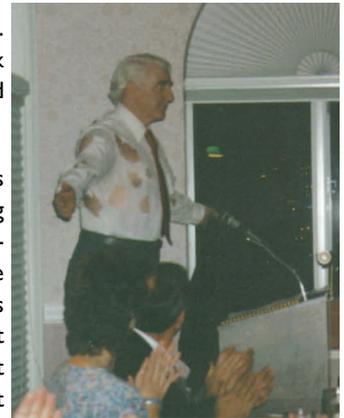

What we moved into was something else. No running water, just a hand pump outside. With his house, we bought two other cabins which must have been at least 40 years old at that time. It was a fishing resort. The first winter we were here, I remodeled the house we were living in, remodeled the two old cabins and built two new cabins in order to open for business in the spring. We thought having a resort in the northwoods would be a nice rosy life. Like hell it was! We found out that you spend twice as much as you take in. To make ends meet, we started to leave Wisconsin each winter to work.

We heard Florida was in a building boom so I thought, there must be a lot of tile work. There was. So we bought a house trailer and hauled that thing down. The first night of the journey we made Woodruff...that's 18 miles down the road! We blew 4 tires on the trailer. The next day we made it to Portage. It took us two weeks and $500 to get to Florida!

I worked in Florida with tile work until November and then in a hotel bussing tables, being a lifeguard and bartending until spring. In spare moments, I went to the University of Miami and studied meteorology. We did that for seven winters until we eventually crawled out of the financial hole. Then I got a job with a builder up here and got a lot of experience with him so I could go out and contract on my own. I was doing everything; carpentry, ceramic tiles, plumbing and running the resort, which then had six cabins and a six-unit motel I built.

Studying meteorology fueled another dream of mine, namely flying. Flying has been a great love to me. It also led me to still another career, as a weather reporter on a local TV station. This career was of short duration.

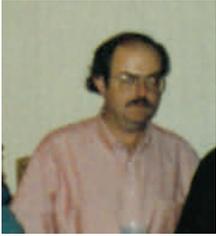

Then, 1964 came, and with it, zoning. We had a referendum on whether to accept zoning. The position of deputy zoning administrator was created. Each town had one and the county appointed a county-wide administrator. I was a town deputy. The previous administrator, Ralph Slater, asked me several times, quite jokingly, how I'd like to be the administrator. I often wondered then why he put it to me jokingly. Ralph was getting around retirement age and pressures were put on him. I worked as his assistant for a year. Then he resigned and the county voted me in, reluctantly in February of 1971, and I've been there ever since.

Jim's Ten Rules for Becoming An "Old Zoner"

10. You are messing with people's dreams—whenever possible, be gentle.
9. Laugh a lot, at yourself first and hardest, at others last, least and sparingly.
8. Never lie—this is so you never have to remember who you told what. The truth becomes more and more important as you age. Trust me on this, it will become obvious.
7. If you screw up, take the blame. If there is a screw up in the Department, take the blame. If something goes well, if there is a success story, give everyone else credit first and save only a tiny bit, if any, for yourself.
6. If it is a problem for you to get up and go to work every morning—find a different job!
5. It took 155 years to get this State to its present state. Most of the stuff we do has only been around for about 35 years. You can't change everything all at once. Be satisfied, even take pleasure in making small changes. They do add up over time. If you are not trying to change things for the better— find a different job!
4. Be aware of and be willing to decide what you are not going to get done today. This is something you have to do every day—get used to it. If you can't—find a different job!
3. It really doesn't get easier with time. Every time you make something fool-proof, some fool comes along and proves you wrong—it's all about the challenge.
2. Pick your fights carefully and know that you are going to loose some important fights. That's okay, use the experience to become a better fighter.
1. Never miss a chance to get together with your peers. Not only does misery love company, but knowing that others have the same issues and learning new solutions to old problems is invaluable. The friends you make is the only true measure of your success.

Jim Burgener (32 year veteran)

Marathon County Assistant Director

Conservation, Planning and Zoning Department

2003 WCCA Fall Conference, October 29-31, Superior

William Hnilicka Memorial Scholarship

Beginning in 1999, WCCA has provided annual scholarships to individuals seeking higher education. The funds for the scholarships are sustained by the fees paid by vendors who set up booths during WCCA conferences. Thank you to all of the people and businesses that support our scholarship effort!

1999—Erin Gatzke

2000—Sarah Rosenfeldt

2001—Warren Hohn

2003—Iryna Depenchuk & Olesya Savchenko

Bill Hnilicka was the Brown County Zoning Administrator from 1970-1996. He served as the WCCA President in 1980 and was very active within the organization. He served on the DILHR 83 Committee that worked on revising the plumbing code standards. Bill passed away from complications of Lou Gehrig's Disease in 1997.

THANK YOU
VENDORS!

WCCA Professional of the Year

Each year, beginning in 1998, WCCA recognizes the accomplishments of an individual who has significantly contributed to the success of the goals and services of the WCCA. These folks have been recognized for the positive impact they have made for the organization:

1998—Dale Dimond, Marathon County

1999—Jim Clark, Dane County

2000—Rebecca Frisch, Langlade County

2001—James Burgener, Marathon County

2002—Ken Christopherson, DNR Liaison

2003—CeCe Tesky, Rusk County

Jim Clark has served as WCCA President in 1997. He represented the WCCA on issues relating to Comm 83 for several years. In the year he received the award, he served as the DeCoder editor, secured federal tax exempt status for WCCA and worked on the model code to fill in gaps left by the new Comm 83.

Dale Dimond served several years as Secretary/Treasurer of WCCA, as well as newsletter editor. Dale has been involved in sanitary issues, as well and has served WCCA in many other capacities.

Ken Christopherson served as the WCCA liaison from the DNR for several years. He provided a wealth of information and insight about DNR programs. As a past administrator in Manitowoc County, he brought a valuable perspective to his role as liaison.

Becky Frisch has served the WCCA well in a number of areas including her tenure as NE District Rep and as President in 1993. She was instrumental in the development of the Shoreland Friends initiative and has represented WCCA on the Governor's Strategic Growth Task Force.

Jim Burgener has served on numerous committees on behalf of the WCCA, as well as serving as President in 1994. His expertise on a wide variety of issues has served him well and he has been a credit to the reputation and credibility of the WCCA.

WCCA Districts

Formal districts within WCCA were initialized in 1974. Having the state divided as such has helped counties stay in communication with others that have similar problems and solutions. There are currently 7 districts around the state. There is a representative from each district that serves on the Executive Board.

The Planning and Zoning Department also houses the land information coordination programs and surveying functions in Clark County. Traditionally a county with limited staff, this department has expanded its services with the addition of new staff in the last few years. Websites (GIS and surveyor) serve to provide much land information to individuals from the convenience of their own home or office. The addition of these website capabilities has been well received by residents, business owner and visitors.

Dan Miller was the WCCA President in 2002. Lincoln County assists in issuing rural address numbers for the county using GPS. They have recently implemented E-Permitting (online). A recent amendment to the shoreland ordinance is performance based. The idea was to create some flexibility in the regulations by creating opportunity to mitigate against potential harm to the waterways from certain activities. It will cut down on variance requests and help ensure maintenance opportunities for nonconforming property owners.

Nothing makes you more tolerant of a neighbor's noisy party than being there.

The expressions on the faces of these members at the Fall Seminar struck me as a classic statement of the four phases in the life of a code administrator. From left to right, "youthful optimism", "guarded skepticism", "jaded cynicism" and "dejected pessimism". Impromptu photos provide the best material, don't you think?

Trempealeau County is overseeing a countywide remonumentation project. Each corner will be revisited or replaced and GPS readings will be established for each corner. Many original stones and oak stakes have been located dating back to the 1850's. In 2001, the department formed and Division of Land Management with the Land Conservation Office, which allows them to work more closely together. The planner has been working with each township to develop township Land Use Plans. The project is nearly complete and has been very successful.

By working faithful eight hours a day, you may eventually get to be boss and work twelve hours a day.

VOICES FROM THE PAST

1994 was the year I finally pulled the plug. Trempealeau County was a one-main shop—and as many of you know it is just about impossible to manage zoning and sanitation ordinances without help and support.

Our comrades in the adjacent counties are sometimes the main support mechanisms in our field of work. Without a good sense of humor and adjacent County Administrators like Steve, Rick, Nate, Terry, Dan and my other friends, it would have been difficult to weather the many storms. Personal commitment for the cause is also helpful, although it can be similar to a one-man crusade (without a horse & sword).

New blood flows with enthusiasm in the county. Salaries often increase with the staffing being increased on eth OLD GUYS leave, This is good and necessary for the changing times in which we live.

The WCCA is an organization where you can find the support that you need to carry on and do the daily jobs. Peers are always there to answer questions and to offer support and advice. If nothing else, they probably have a story or case that is just as difficult, bizarre or humorous as the one that you are trying to resolve.

Back to the question or request on what Mark Palmer is doing now, I'm very busy soil testing and designing systems. The quest for more licenses made me a Master Plumber Restricted and Licensed Designer, However, this is it, no more tests and license renewals.

Self-employment requires lots of hours of work throughout the year. The rewards are not only financial but people are happy to see you on their property and they appreciate what you do.

What spare time I have is spent with my family working on projects on our property, hunting, selling oak flooring and selling small excavators to my soil testing competition. I do wish I has the time to trap and shoot geese, like my buddy DuWayne Klessig has. Maybe those county jobs aren't so bad after all!!

Protect our resources my friends. You are on the firing lines and it's your personal commitments that make the difference. Wish I was there, but I have to go have a beer, watch Oprah, and work on my afternoon nap. Life is good. Catch you at the next conference.

A man knocked at the heavenly gate;
His face was haggard and old.
He stood before the Man of Fate
For admission to the fold.

“What have you done,” Saint Peter asked,
“To gain admission here?”
“I’ve been in the zoning business, Sir,
For many and many a year.”

The pearly gates swung open wide;
Saint Peter touched the bell.
“Come in and choose your harp,” he said,
“You’ve had your share of Hell.”

WCCA Newsletter, June 1977

It has been an honor to work with this organization and the wonderful people in it. I think this poem illustrates the dedication of the members of this organization and I wanted to include it.

The Bridge

*An old man going along a highway came at the evening, cold and grey,
To a chasm, vast and deep and wide, through which was flowing a swollen tide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim, that swollen stream held no fears for him,
But he paused when safe on the other side and he built a bridge to span the tide.*

*“Old man, “ said a fellow pilgrim near, “You’re wasting strength with building here.
Your journey ends with this ending day, you may never again pass this way.
You’ve crossed this chasm deep and wide, why build you this bridge at the even ‘tide?’”*

*The builder lifted his old grey head, “Good friend, in the path I have come,” he said.
“There followeth after me today, a youth whose feet must pass this way.
This swollen stream that was naught for me, to that fair haired youth may a pitfall be.
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim, good friend, I am building this bridge for him!”*
